CASE WILL GO TO TRIAL.

Countess De Castellane Refuses to Withdraw Suit for Separation.

Paris, Feb. 8.—Strong efforts continue to be made in behalf of the Castellane family to bring about the abandonment of the divorce suit begun by the Countess Loni de Castellane (formerly Anna Gould), but up to the present the desired result has not been achieved. An attempt made to obtain the countess' assent to a judicial separation without an absolute divorce has also been unsuccessful and probably the case will pursue the ordinary course, coming up for a hearing at no fixed date, but it is expected that it will be heard three weeks hence.

Boilermakers' Strike Ended.

Duluth, Feb. 8.—The boilermakers' strike, which has been in progress in Duluth and Superior for the past two weeks, has been settled by the employers conceding to the demands of the men for 36 cents an hour. The 250 strikers will at once return to work.

No New Trial for Williams.

St. Paul, Feb. 8.—No further effort will be made to secure a new trial for William Williams, sentenced to be hanged on Feb. 13 for the murder of John Keller at No. 1 Reid court last April. Attorneys for the condemned man admit that all hope of securing a new trial had about been abandoned.

Tribesmen After Raisuli.

FIRST TIME IN YEARS

ATTEMPT TO ADMINISTER PARTY
DISCIPLINE TO A SENATOR
MADE IN SENATE.

BAILEY TAUNTS PATTERSON

TEXAN ARRAIGNS THE COLORADO
SENATOR FOR THE COURSE
HE HAD PURSUED.

Washington, Feb. 8.—For the first time in many years, the senate chamber during the day was made the scene of an effort to administer party discipline to a member of that body and the occurrence was one of so many dramatic details that the many witnesses will not soon forget it. Mr. Patterson was the subject of the effort and Mr. Bailey, to whom in the absence of Mr. Gorman Democratic leadership is conceded, was the instrument of his party in the incident.

The proceedings arose in connection with the consideration of Mr. Patterson's resolution of remonstrance against caucus action on treaties with foreign nations.

The Colorado senator called up his resolution immediately after the conclusion of the routine morning business and addressed the senate upon it. The facts concerning the caucus proceedings of Saturday and his withdrawal from the caucus were fresh in the minds of senators. Mr. Patterson's speech was in the main an elaboration of his resolution and he contended stoutly for the right of a senator to follow the dictates of his conscience rather than the demands of his party in all matters regarding which the two may be in conflict.

An Air of Intense Excitement.

Before he had concluded the proceedings took on an air of intensity and excitement. Mr. Bailey, as well as most of the members of his party, had interpreted Mr. Patterson's resolution as a deliberate reflection upon the Democratic caucus and from the moment that Mr. Bailey arose he assumed an aggressive and somewhat taunting manner towards the Colorado senator. His speech was based upon the theory that all senators are under obligation to obey conscience rather than caucus, but that in doing so they antagonize their party and should hold themselves responsible to their party. But the speech was more notable for its arraignment of Mr. Patterson for his course than for its adherence to any line of argument.

Mr. Bailey charged the senator from Colorado with having been a party to the adoption in a previous caucus of the rule binding Democratic senators to the two-thirds rule. This charge and Mr. Patterson's response to it constituted a most dramatic incident and the feeling throughout the senate chamber was very tense until the climax was passed.

Mr. Patterson failed to recall the proceedings of the previous caucus, but Mr. Bailey's colleague, Mr. Culbertson, was prepared with a copy of those proceedings and when he had exhibited it, Mr. Patterson said that he would not undertake to dispute the record. He was inclined at first to charge complicity to disparage him before his colleagues in the country, but afterwards said he was not so much concerned over this apparent inconsistency on his own part as he was at the effect the springing of the matter would have upon the main issue which was to exhibit to the country the danger of caucus dictation.

AMENDMENTS ALL DEFEATED.

House Members Fail to Change Railroad Rate Bill.

Washington, Feb. 8.—By continuing its session practically to 7 o'clock the house concluded all preliminary steps to the passage of the railroad rate bill, ordered a roll call on the measure and put off the final action until noon the following day.

The time for amendment came at 4 o'clock and for three hours following one amendment after another came up, was read, debated in some instances, and sent down to defeat. So fierce was the struggle to amend that often when a paragraph of the bill was concluded in the reading a dozen members shouted for recognition and waved their amendments.

Not one of these was adopted. They contained all manner of propositions, such as regulating preferentials, the long and short haul, free passes, court procedure, whole rate bills, and parts of bills. All went "by the board."

Previous to these exciting proceedings the house had been entertained for five hours by the oratory of its best speakers. Mr. Bourke Cockran of New York gave his approval to the measure in an elaborate speech. Mr. Mann of Illinois followed, and then the minority leader, Mr. Williams, exounded the measure and congratulated everybody on its success. Chairman Hepburn closed the debate in a comprehensive speech dealing with the arguments of its opponents and the terms of the bill.

Trains in Collision.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 8.—Trains Nos. 4 and 2 (Dixie Flyer), Central of Georgia railroad, collided near Forsythe, Ga., a few minutes after midnight. No details obtainable, but several persons are reported hurt.

MEETING OF UNIONIST PARTY.

Balfour Agrees With Chamberlain on the Subject.

London, Feb. 8.—A. J. Balfour has finally acceded to Joseph Chamberlain's wish that a call be made for a general meeting of the Unionist party. It is expected the gathering will be fixed for Feb. 15, though no details have been settled yet. In the meantime Mr. Chamberlain has issued an important manifesto, which, whilst accentuating rather than lessening the party tension, still leaves Mr. Balfour a bridge over which to cross into the tariff camp. Otherwise, beyond exactly defining Mr. Chamberlain's position, the latter leaves matters much as they were before.

The Chamberlainite newspapers apparently assume that Mr. Balfour will cross the bridge, for they head Mr. Chamberlain's letter "the crisis ended," "a united party," etc., and editorialize in the same strain. The suggestion, however, is made by the Chronicle that Mr. Chamberlain has abandoned the frontal attack on Mr. Balfour in favor of an enveloping movement in an attempt to capture the party machinery.

That Mr. Chamberlain has no idea of abandoning tariff agitation is shown by his declaration of an intention to form his own parliamentary group. He also in his letter suggests that questions of social reform now arising will require large revenues, the raising of which may be indirectly connected with tariff policy. This is regarded as a bid for the support of the new labor party.

DID NOT SIGN THE TREATY.

Korean Emperor Denies Approving Convention With Japan.

London, Feb. 8.—Douglas Story, telegraphing to the Tribune from Chefoo, states that he has obtained from the emperor of Korea a document bearing the imperial seal, the original of which he says he has proved before the British consul at Chefoo. In this document the emperor denied that he signed or approved the treaty with Japan or consented to the appointment of a Japanese resident and "invites the great powers to exercise a joint protectorate over Korea for a period not exceeding five years with respect to control of Korean foreign affairs."

JOHNSON WILL SERVE

GOVERNOR OF MINNESOTA ACCEPTS PLACE ON LAWSON'S INSURANCE COMMITTEE.

St. Paul, Feb. 8.—Thomas W. Lawson of Boston came to town during the day in his private car and persuaded Governor John A. Johnson to serve on his committee which he proposes to have reorganize the New York Life and the Mutual Life.

Governor Johnson consented to act after Mr. Lawson had spent four hours going over the situation thoroughly and in detail. The two were closeted over four hours, and at the close of the conference they announced that Governor Johnson would be one of the committee to take charge of the proxies of policyholders and try to reorganize the companies.

The committee Mr. Lawson has picked consists of Governor Cummins of Iowa, Governor N. B. Broward of Florida, Governor Johnson of Minnesota, Former Attorney General F. S. Monnett of Ohio, Fremont Older, editor of the San Francisco Bulletin, and James Hemphill of New York. He had hoped to get Senator La Follette and Congressman McCall appointed, but they could not serve. He says that of these Mr. Monnett, Governor Johnson and Mr. Older have already consented to serve. Governor Cummins is thinking about it.

THE SEED OF TREASON

MORMON CPOSTATE DECLARES THAT IT IS SOWN IN THE OATH OF VENGEANCE.

TESTIFIES IN SMOOT CASE

SAYS THAT POLYGAMY HAS INCREASED SINCE UTAH WAS ADMITTED AS A STATE.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Hearings in the case of Senator Reed Smoot were resumed during the day before the committee on privileges and elections. The investigation of the protests against the senator retaining his seat continued through two sessions of congress and today marked the beginning of meetings which the committee is likely to hold intermittently throughout the present session.

The first witness was Professor Walter M. Wolfe, former teacher of geology in Brigham Young college at Logan, Utah, and an apostate of the church. John G. Carlisle of New York conducted the prosecution and A. S. Worthington of this city defended the senator.

Professor Wolfe testified that he had been a Mormon until Jan. 1 of this year, when his connection was severed through failure to comply with the demands for tithes. He was asked to tell what he knew of the alleged plural marriage of Professor Benjamin Cluff and Florence Reynolds, both teachers at Provo. This case occupied a prominent place in the former hearings. In detailing what he knew of their relations he told of a Mormon expedition to Mexico. Professor Wolfe said he had been informed at that time by Cluff that he was married to Florence Reynolds and that they lived together on that trip. President Smith, he said, referred to Florence as Sister Cluff.

The Oath of Vengeance.

"Twelve times," answered Professor Wolfe when asked how many times he had been through the endowment house, or temple, he explained, as the endowment house was torn down many years ago.

"Did you take any obligations or oaths when you went through?" asked Mr. Carlisle.

"Every time," he replied. Asked to detail them he said there had been obligations of chastity, sacrifice and vengeance.

"What do you mean by vengeance?" asked Mr. Carlisle. "Do you mean there was a promise or pledge given to avenge something?"

The witness then said that this oath had been taken:

"You and each of you do covenant and pray and never cease to pray God to avenge the blood of the prophet on this nation."

"To the best of my knowledge," said Professor Wolfe, "polygamous cohab-

DO NOT WANT TO BUY LAND.

Russians Expect to Receive it as a Gift From the Government.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 8.—A delegation of citizens of Ekaterinodar, Caucasus, sent to St. Petersburg to obtain the emperor's personal assurance that the land question would not be settled by the present government, but by the national assembly, was received in audience by Premier Witte. The premier pointed out that the agrarian problem could not be solved by a division of the state lands alone, amounting only to 16,000,000 acres, much of which is forest land. The peasants must be prepared to buy private lands on the easy installment plan, as provided by the imperial ukase of November last. The spokesman of the delegation replied that the peasants did not wish to buy land but were determined to receive it as a gift from the government.

At the close of an informal discussion the premier thanked Heaven that the conditions in Russia were different from those prevailing in other countries. He said, according to the published report, that a French president was dependent on the electors and an English king on Jewish bankers, but the Russian emperor was independent. The consummation desired by the revolutionists that the country be ruled by Poles, Armenians and Jews, would not be realized.

GETS PRESENT FROM FRANCE.

Miss Roosevelt Given a Rare Piece of Tapestry.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Miss Alice Roosevelt has received a wedding gift from the French government. The gift consists of a beautiful gobelin, representing "Justice" and was offered to Miss Roosevelt by M. Jussier, and the French ambassador in this city. It was understood that President Roosevelt had informed several European powers that it would not be agreeable if they sent especially expensive gifts, and accordingly most European governments are expected to send small gifts merely to express their good will and wishes to the daughter of America's first citizen. But the French government had already given orders for the manufacture of this rare piece of tapestry. The piece, though not very large, is invaluable as that particular kind of gobelin is solely made for the French government on special occasions.

STREET CARS IN COLLISION.

Five Persons Badly Hurt in Accident in Seattle, Wash.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 8.—Running at an estimated speed of twenty miles an hour through a dense fog, a Ballard street car and a Fort Lawton car of the Seattle Electric company collided head-on during the day on the trestle between Interbay and the Smith street siding on the Ballard line. Five men were badly hurt. Two of these, John Herron, the motorman of the Ballard car, and one passenger, name unknown, may die. The cars were telescoped. Failure of the motorman on the Ballard car to observe the block signals is given as the cause of the accident.

Down in Missouri the next legislature is to be asked to repeal the law imposing a tax on personal property for the reason that the law is abused and there seems to be no remedy for it, besides it is responsible for the indiscriminate spread of perjury. The principal reason is, however, that the state has a sufficient surplus on hand to justify radical changes in the tax laws.

Will Be Buried at White Sulphur Springs.

The remains of the late Thos. H. B. Hussey will not be brought back to Brainerd for burial, but will be interred tomorrow afternoon at White Sulphur Springs, Mont., under Masonic auspices. A. She was at White Sulphur Springs when Mr. Hussey died and has been there for some time. Fuller details of the sudden death have not reached Brainerd yet.

Growing Water Lilies From Seed. Many of the choicest water lilies, even the magnificent Victoria regia, may be grown from seed. For many years the seed of this lily, when brought to this country, failed to germinate.

It was finally found that by bottling the seeds in the water of the river in which they grew they could be transported safely from the waters of the Amazon to the far west. Here the lily is usually grown with bottom heat, as it is very tender. Seeds started in pots in a temperature of 59 degrees will germinate in about two weeks and may be planted out in the open air when the nights have become warm—usually about the 1st of June—and will bloom the same summer, but cannot be carried through the winter, but must be started afresh each season, either by the purchase of plants or the sowing of seed, the latter being, of course, much more economical, as seeds may be purchased for a few cents apiece, the plants costing as many dollars.—American Homes and Gardens.

Use For Old Shoes.

Janitors collect the shoes cast away by tenants and send them to auction rooms, where they are sorted into piles marked "Men," "Women," "Children." Several poor people make fair bids, but the auctioneer did not seem anxious to sell. Finally a man pushed his way through the crowd and offered 10 cents apiece for the whole lot. His bid was successful. "I was killing time with talk waiting for that fellow," said the auctioneer afterward. "He always plays high for these shoes, and he does not want them for wearing, either. He wants to beat them out for the leather in them. He gets what material there is, puts it through a process and makes stamped imitation leather novelties, such as picture frames, bags, pocketbooks, pen-knife holders and even chair backs and seats. He finds a ready sale for these novelties and gets a good price for them."—Shoe Retailer.

Blessing the River.

In the little Balkan state of Roumania it has been the custom from time immemorial for towns by the river Danube to keep the Christmas feast by a peculiar ceremony called "blessing the river." This used to be carried out on a scaffolding erected on the frozen river, but owing to an accident, when the ice broke, and hundreds of people were drowned, it is now held upon the bank. The people wear turbans of colored paper and carry long white wands. Some are dressed to represent Biblical characters. The service, conducted by priests, lasts about half an hour, and then the ice is broken and a small wooden cross thrown into the water. Then people rush into the icy river after this emblem, and the person who secures it is supposed to be assured of great good luck for the coming year.

TRIAL OF PAT CROWE BEGUN.

Charged With Robbery in Connection With Kidnapping Case.

Omaha, Feb. 8.—The trial of Pat Crowe, charged with robbing E. A. Cudahy of $25,000 in connection with the kidnapping of E. A. Cudahy, Jr., five years ago, was begun in the district court of Douglas county during the day. It is expected that several days will be consumed in securing a jury.

There is no charge of kidnapping against Crowe, there having been no law in Nebraska at the time the kidnapping occurred making the kidnapping of a person over ten years of age a criminal offense. Fifty-seven witnesses have been subpoenaed for the state and forty others are on the list to be called if necessary.

The Fall of the Hennins.

The hennins or headresses worn by ladies of the fifteenth century were in shape of horns and so long that a woman's face appeared to be in the center of her figure. The clergy condemned them and threatened the wearers with perdition, but for all that they were worn higher than ever. At last a strolling evangelist at Paris promised absolution to all who would destroy the hennins, and the mob went to work and wrecked the headresses whenever they appeared in public. The hennins were trampled under foot and their wearers insulted all over Paris. Scores of lives were lost in the efforts of the cavaliers to defend the hennins from the rabble, but in vain, and the enormous headresses disappeared, some other feminine absurdity taking their place.

A Precise Answer.

"Lawyers are supposed to be the most literal minded men," said an eminent member of the bar, "but every now and then counsel in course of practice will encounter witnesses who can give them points in the matter of literal answers. An Irishman was called to testify in a damage suit arising out of the death of a man 'at the hands of a bull,' so to speak.

"Are we to understand, sir," asked the prosecuting attorney, "that the deceased, Patrick Flannigan, was your father?"

"He was till the bull killed him," was the reply of the wary witness."

Butchery in War.

In one of Du Guesclin's victories so many English were taken captive that even the humblest soldier among the French had one or more prisoners. The victors, however, fell to quarreling, and, ill feeling becoming rife in the French army in consequence of these quarrels over the prisoners, Du Guesclin ordered all the captives to be butchered, and the brutal order was carried out.

A Different Bill.

Bill Jones, a western merchant, went to Kansas City to buy goods. Some of these he shipped home ahead of his own arrival and nearly frightened his wife out of her wits. The neighbors heard her shriek and, running to her rescue, found her frantically endeavoring to remove the cover of a big box, all because the box bore the legend, "Bill Inside."

Yourself and Your Neighbor.

There is an idea abroad among moral people that they must make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good—myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by the saying that I have to make him happy—if I may.—Steven-son.

TOO MANY MASTERS

OPINION OF JOHN F. WALLACE ON POSITION OF ENGINEER OF PANAMA CANAL.

SHOULD BE IN AUTHORITY

MAN IN CHARGE OF CONSTRUCTION WORK OUGHT TO HOLD UNDISPUTED SWAY.

Washington, Feb. 8.—John F. Wallace, former chief engineer of the Panama canal commission, during the day concluded his testimony before the interoceanic canal committee, except as to the type of canal, which will be taken up after the reports of the board of consulting engineers have been considered.

He said that red tape system in governmental work compelled him to favor the contract plan of building the canal in order to expedite its completion. He thought the man in charge of the work on the Isthmus should be the undisputed head with the governor of the zone second, and the man who has charge of procuring the supplies third in authority.

The present arrangements, he said, amounted to a chain of masters with the chairman of the commission, an executive commission, Mr. Cromwell, Secretary Taft and the president, grading down to Mr. Stevens or the man in actual charge of operations on the Isthmus. He said Mr. Cromwell had been included as one of the masters for the reason that he seemed to have certain undisputed influence which entitled him to be classed in the chain. Headquarters of the commission should be on the Isthmus, Mr. Wallace said, and the harder the communication with Washington the less the work would be retarded.

He thought the engineer in charge was not paid an excessive salary.

Mr. Morgan suggested that Mr. Stevens was receiving as much as all six senators in the committee room. Mr. Wallace replied:

"Yes, and I presume he earns it." He thought the chairman of the commission if he was to live in the United States was receiving too much, but said he could not speak confidentially concerning that.

Discussing rates on the Panama railroad, he thought there should be no classification of freight in the schedules, but that a charge of $2 a ton should be made. He compared the Panama railway to the railroads of the United States as a grain of sand to the seashore.

"If this government cannot deal with the rates on that little road in a satisfactory manner it had better leave the railway systems of the United States alone."

MOODY LEAVES CHICAGO.

Death of His Law Partner Takes Him to Haverhill, Mass.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—The reading of the report of the beef industry made by Commissioner Garfield occupied the entire day in the trial of the packers' case and when court adjourned for the day a large part of the report remained to be read. In all probability the reading will not be finished for a day or two more.

Attorney General Moody left Chicago during the afternoon for Haverhill, Mass. He had received a telegram that Joseph H. Pearl, with whom he had associated for years in the law business, had died there suddenly.

Watch and See.

A well known horseman describes a fact in natural history which may not be generally known. It is that all four footed beasts in making the first movement in walking, running or any sort of forward motion always employ the left hind leg as a starter. Even a child if put down on all fours and bidden to advance in that position will make the first move with its left leg, its hands at the time occupying the place of an animal's fore legs.

WILL THE MILL BE RUN AGAIN?

Rumors to that Effect Being Industriously Circulated
About the City

NOTHING VERY DEFINITE KNOWN

Men Said to be Replacing Machinery in the Mill that Had Been Taken Out

Rumors are being industriously circulated about the city that the big Brainerd Lumber Company's mill will be operated again this season and citizens who take stock in the rumors are accordingly very much elated. But although the rumors are being very industriously circulated it is hard to get hold of anything definite concerning the matter.

Some have it that the mill will be operated by the Shevlin company of Minneapolis, who are said to be the recent purchasers while other rumors are to the effect that the Backus-Brooks people will get hold of the property, and will operate it for several years, as it was the well known intention of the company to do so had they acquired the property when they attempted to purchase it last week. As was well known the Backus-Brooks people had an option on the property last week up to a certain time, and the story is that a few minutes before that time expired they were at the Brainerd Lumber company's office in Minneapolis ready to take the property, but it had been sold to other parties, supposedly to the Shevlin company. At this the Brooks people were indignant and threatened suit, and as a result arrangements were made to effect the sale to the Brooks people, and it is this company that rumor says will operate the mill. However, the former story that the Shevlin people will operate the property seems more probable. In fact it has been intimated very strongly to THE DISPATCH by one who is in a position to know that while it will be operated by the Shevlin people, logs for the Backus-Brooks concern and others will be manufactured. It is also understood that a very favorable rate has been made on logs for Brainerd by the railroad officials as an inducement for the new owners of the mill to operate it, and it is largely in consequence of this concession on rates that they have concluded to run the mill. It is certainly to be hoped that these rumors will prove to be true. It certainly looks that way.

Scrub yourself daily, you're not clean inside. This means clean stomach, bowels, blood, liver, clean, healthy tissue in every organ. MORAL: Take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, tea or tablets. H. P. Dunn & Co.

James O'Hara Finished His Sentence of Sixty Days But Got Back Into Jail in A Few Hours

Yesterday James O'Hara finished a sixty day sentence in the county jail, having been guilty of entering the home of Ole Landmark at night and appropriating some clothing. He was released yesterday morning, but by night fall he was behind the bars again. It seems that he got out with some of his pals and commenced to drink whisky until he could not see. He will probably get another 10 days on which to sober up on. Officer Derocher, who made the arrest, had a rather hard time of it getting the man to the calaboose.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

WILL BUILD TO RAINY RIVER

D. R. L. & W. Ry. Will Build to Canadian Border, Connecting Duluth With Winnipeg

A dispatch to the Duluth Herald says that bonds have been issued to extend the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg to the Canadian border. Accordingly, says the Herald:

"It is expected that within a week or ten days, bids will be called for the extension of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg from Ashawa to Beaudette, Minn., where it will connect with the Canadian Northern. Beaudette is on the Rainy river, which forms the boundary between Minnesota and Canada. The extension will be 100 miles in length, and will be completed before the end of the year. This will give a direct line from Duluth to Winnipeg, whether the road extends to Duluth or not, for there are already three railroads connecting Duluth with Virginia, the starting point of the Rainy Lake road.

"The mortgage was executed Jan. 1, 1903, and will expire Jan. 1, 1916. It covers the property of the railway company and bears interest of 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually. The mortgage is attested by W. H. Cook, president, and David O. Anderson, secretary, for the railroad company, and by J. J. Mitchell and W. H. Henkle for the trust company.

"The road will open a country rich in timber and agricultural resources, and will mean a good deal to local jobbing interests."

Agreement Reached Between Railroad
Conductors and Trainmen on the Northern Pacific

The biennial joint conference of the grievance committees of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railroad Conductors, for adjusting terms with the Northern Pacific, which has been in session in St. Paul during the past thirty days, came to a close late Tuesday.

Officers were elected by the committee representing the Railroad Trainmen as follows: Chairman, Fred Brastrup, of Jamestown, N. D.; vice chairman, R. W. Robinson, of Staples, Minn., and secretary, E. L. Horrigan, of Missoula, Mont. The committee representing the Railway Conductors elected: Chairman, J. T. Hughes, Duluth; vice chairman, L. E. Flint, Grand Forks, N. D.; and secretary, D. C. Maxwell, Glendive, Montana.

Mr. Brastrup and Mr. Maxwell were elected to their respective offices for the third time successively.

The committee of the Railway Conductors presented merchandise pipes to Chairman Hughes and Secretary Maxwell, in recognition of their long and faithful services.

The conference was held by the joint committee with General Superintendent F. W. Gilbert of the Northern Pacific. The officers of the two committees say that the terms agreed upon with Mr. Gilbert for the employment of the members of the two orders do not differ materially from those at present in force, though some changes have been made looking to the amelioration in the way of shorter hours for the employees, rather than to increased compensation.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

B. C. WHITNEY'S "PIFF PAFF POUF."

Bright, cheery and entrancing is the description given by one of the twin city papers which spoke of B. C. Whitney's "Piff Paff Puff," which will arrive in Brainerd on Feb. 24. The comedy has made a most pronounced hit everywhere presented, and local theatergoers who relish tuneful music, unique, bright dialogue, and entrancing songs, may look forward to a brilliant and most satisfying entertainment.

"Piff Paff Puff" held the fancy of New Yorkers last season for eight months, or 285 performances, at the New York Casino, and with many new features added this season to the hits of last year, promises well as an entertainment of exceptionally amusing qualities.

The company this year is far superior to last season's, and the list of names looks well worth while: Fred W. Mace, Kathryn Osterman, R. E. Graham, Nellie Hewett, Chas. A. Mergan, Lulu McConnell, Walter H. Cluxton, Eveleen Dunmore, Harry Stuart, Martin Cheese man and Lisle Bloodgood. The production is elaborately staged, sumptuously mounted, and handsomely gowned. The scenic, electrical and costuming, embellishment is entirely fresh and new.

LOUIS JAMES.

There is always a certain amount of interest attached to the premier performance of all great plays, it may, therefore interest our readers to learn the genesis of each of the plays presented this season by Louis James, also the principal actors in their creation.

James Sheridan Knowles' tragedy of "Virginius" was first performed in the Glasgow Theatre, Glasgow, Scotland, by a very inferior stock company, and no record has been kept of the players. The first prominent production, however, was given at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden, London, May 17, 1820, with W. C. Macready as "Virginius," Charles Kemble as Icilius, Mr. Terry as Dentatus and Miss Foote as Virginia. The original American "Virginius" was Edwin Forrest, at that time America's representative actor. Lord Bulwer Lytton's "Richelieu" was first played at the Theatre Royal Covent Garden, London, March 7, 1839, with W. C. Macready as "Richelieu," Mr. Anderson, De Mauprat, W. Ward as Baradas and Helen Faucit as Julie De Mortemar. Edwin Forrest was also the original American "Richelieu."

HYOMEI CURES CATARRH

Its Healing Balsams Kill All Catarrhal
Germs—Sold Under Guarantee by H. P. Dunn & Co.

There is no more common disease than catarrh, and none that is more dangerous. It weakens and debilitates the whole system, if it is allowed to run, leads to serious, and sometimes fatal complications.

It is a note-worthy fact that among the many medicines and treatments for catarrh, there is only one which H. P. Dunn & Co. sell under their positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure,—Hyomei, nature's remedy for the cure of catarrh.

No dangerous drugs are taken into the stomach when Hyomei is used. Breathed through the small pocket inhaler that comes with every Hyomei outfit, its healing balsams penetrate to the most remote cells of the throat, nose and lungs, killing the germs of catarrh, healing the irritated mucous membrane, and making complete and lasting cures.

The complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of an inhaler that can be carried in the purse or vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei, can be procured, whenever needed, for only 50 cents.

H. P. Dunn & Co. are selling a good many Hyomei outfits at this season, and they have so much confidence in the remedy that they guarantee to refund the money in case it does not cure.

WHEELER'S BOLD PLAN

How Southern Veteran Designed to Rescue Jefferson Davis.

STORY OF THE GENERAL'S FRIEND

Carl Guthrie, who related incident recently made public, said Confederate President, however, would not countenance mutiny scheme on Union vessel—Escape to Bermuda was carefully planned.

The death of General Joseph Wheeler of Alabama, the hero of two great wars and personal friend of President Jefferson Davis of the Confederacy, has brought to light a plan to rescue the imprisoned head of the Confederacy, which was not put into execution because of the objection of Davis, says a special dispatch from Memphis, Tenn., to the St. Louis Republic. Wheeler was the author of this plan.

The story which was recently given to the American public for the first time was related by General Wheeler to his friend and confidant, Carl Guthrie, the noted artist of Washington, who has been in Memphis engaged in painting some portraits for the historic Semmes family. Mr. Guthrie was formerly a resident of Memphis and is well known to the older citizens there.

"I painted General Wheeler's portrait several years ago," he said while entertaining some friends in his studio recently, "and it was during his sitting one day that he told me this story. I knew him intimately for years. We occupied adjoining houses in Washington, and he never visited the capital without coming to see me."

"I shall not attempt to give you his words, but will merely outline the story as he told it to me, sitting facing me as I worked over his portrait and talking with that wonderful animation which always possessed him when interested."

"You know he was with President Davis on board the transport by which that official, after his capture by General Wilson, was carried to his incarceration in Fortress Monroe. I do not now remember the names of all the Confederates who accompanied their president on that voyage, but among them were General Joseph Wheeler, his adjutant, General Rallis; Major Moran, Captain Moody and President Davis' private secretary, Burton N. Harrison."

"There were, if my memory serves me right, somewhere between fifteen and twenty captured Confederates who were permitted, or required, to accompany their chief as a sort of bodyguard, and of this bodyguard General Wheeler was, as I understand it, the recognized leader."

"The vessel in which they were being taken to Fortress Monroe, as the event proved, although they imagined at the time that they were destined for Washington, was, as President Davis himself has declared, 'an old transport ship, hardly seaworthy.' She had on board in addition to the mariners required for her management a complement of Union soldiers, who went along as guards for the captured Confederates."

"You know what a daring man General Wheeler was. I believe no situation ever became so desperate that he was not ready to face it, and we who know the story of his life can testify that he won out in his undertakings, too, however desperate they might have appeared to others at times."

"The fertile brain of the gallant little fighter conceived the project of overpowering the Union guard, capturing the vessel by force and making off with her to the Bermudas. Once landed there they would be on British soil and out of reach of the federal government."

"I remember vividly how his eyes sparkled and glowed and how nervous and enthusiastic he became as he described to me in detail how he had planned it all out; how certain members of the body guard were to throttle the guard at the head of the companionway and disarm him and how certain others were to attack other guards stationed in different parts of the transport ship at the same moment."

"As he conceived the plan it could not have failed of success. All it required was that President Davis should assent to it. But Davis absolutely refused to countenance the plan when it was laid before him. It was in vain that they pleaded and argued and reasoned."

"The war is over," he told them finally. "My escape now can be of no benefit to my people. For my personal safety I have no concern. I am a prisoner of war. What becomes of me is of little moment. We can serve no good purpose by effecting this escape. Let us make no further resistance."

"And so no attempt was made to carry the plan into execution, and, as far as I am aware, the world has never heard of it until now. But I feel sure that General Wheeler, in spite of his love and reverence for President Davis, never became quite reconciled to the idea that he had done the wisest thing in refusing to permit this mutiny on his own behalf upon that Union transport ship."

For Upright Writing.

A league has been formed in Paris for upright writing, says the New York Times. It takes as its motto a phrase from George Sand: "Upright writing on horizontal paper with the body held straight." The league crusades against the English and American style of writing, slanting and angular, which, it says, is no longer really taught in England and America. Slanting writing is said to cause short sight, "scholiosis," and many other optical troubles.

Homely Voltair.

Voltaire was the ugliest man of his age. Emaciated to a skeleton, all the features of his countenance were exaggerated. His nose and chin nearly met from the lack of teeth; his cheeks were sunken and wrinkled, his eyes set so far back in his head and so obscured by shaggy, overhanging brows as to be almost invisible. He usually wore a large wig, from the midst of which his attenuated features peeped out with comical effect. For years before he died his weight did not exceed ninety pounds.

Father.

"I suppose I ought to ask your father or your hand?"

"Well, yes; it might please him, and I can't do any hurt. Of course it wouldn't be at all necessary if mother were home."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COURTSHIP OF MISS ROOSEVELT

How Congressman Longworth Wooed President's Daughter.

INCIDENTS OF THRILLING ROMANCE

Member of Secretary Taft's Philippine Party Says the Wooing Began on Way Across Pacific, and Engagement Was Finally Admitted—Heroic Rescue by Bridegroom to Be—Sale Datto's Fine Gift.

All through the long trip to the east which Miss Roosevelt and Congressman Nicholas Longworth took with the Taft expedition to the Philippines last summer the attention of the party, especially of the women, was intently focused upon the young couple. From one of the members of the party the New York Journal obtained sundry personal recollections of incidents on the way in which Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth figured. Some of these are printed below:

"It speaks well for the women of the Taft party that they were able to keep a secret so well, for all of them knew before the voyage back to San Francisco was ended that Mr. Longworth had proposed to Miss Roosevelt and had been accepted."

"Miss Roosevelt was under the strict chaperonage of four women of mature years, and naturally they were keen to know if their judgment was to be confirmed, because they were all morally certain before we had been at sea a day on the outward trip that Mr. Longworth was an ardent suitor. So no one was very greatly surprised one day when Miss Roosevelt appeared with a new ring. Rather it was an old one, for it has been in the Longworth family for years. It is a single sapphire set in a band of plain, dull gold."

"Yes," said Miss Roosevelt, blushing, but frank enough, when she saw the women looking at the ring, 'I've promised.'"

"She insisted that the engagement must be unannounced until her father and mother had been consulted. Of course every one agreed."

"Mr. Longworth's wooing wasn't altogether a bed of roses. He didn't merely have to ask once. I know that. He had to do some coaxing. He was frankly jealous too."

"While we were in California there was a French count in the French diplomatic service who was devoted to Miss Roosevelt. Mr. Longworth did not fancy the friendship a bit, and he showed it. Oh, he was jealous all right! There was a dance one night, and the Frenchman and Mr. Longworth had a sedate race to Miss Roosevelt's side to beg the honor of a dance. Longworth got there a little ahead, but Miss Roosevelt gave her arm to the count."

"Run away and play," she said laughingly as she floated off with the count."

"Longworth became interested in the prettiest girl at the party and let Miss Roosevelt severely alone for the rest of the night. They made up the next day, though."

"Like most of the younger men of the party, Longworth wore white ducks and flannels when we were in the hot climate going down through the islands. He liked to sport a brilliant red necktie—the reddest red I ever saw—which did not suit the critical eye of Miss Roosevelt."

"She frequently bantered him about it and entreated him to take it off, but he wouldn't. At Hongkong she bought a tie for herself, redder and more violent if anything than Longworth's."

"Red isn't especially becoming to her, but she put on the tie next day and announced that she intended to wear it until Longworth surrendered. He weakened, and both ties were consigned to the deep."

"We all got a scare at Jolo on account of Longworth. The youngsters were bathing in the ocean one afternoon, and a newspaper man of the name of O'Brien got caught in the undertow. He tried quickly and was being carried out to sea when Longworth took after him and brought him in. It was a risky situation because he had to buck the tide to get to shore, which was a big enough job in itself without having a helpless, floundering man to tow."

"Miss Roosevelt, with the other women, had gone ashore at the first alarm. Most of them were crying and wringing their hands, but she didn't. She stood knee deep in the water, leaning forward with her hands clinched and her face pale. But not a sound came from her. When it was all over and everybody was patting Longworth on the back and telling him what a hero he was she walked away."

"In a minute she came back. Her eyes were red. All she said to Longworth was:

"My, what a brave young man! Aren't you afraid you'll get your name in the newspapers?"

"I guess she said something more that night, because they had one end of the veranda to themselves for a long while. It was a mighty fine night, too; lots of moonlight, and we had a bunch of little brown men up serenading us with guitars and singing Spanish love songs."

"After seeing the pair together for a time every one agreed that they were just suited for each other. Their individuality is sufficiently different to make one a foil for the other, but they have a good many tastes in common. But they couldn't agree on colors. Miss Roosevelt dislikes yellow, while Longworth likes it. On the contrary, she likes green, against which Longworth has a strong prejudice."

"While we were in Tientsin the empress of China, whom we were on our way to visit, set apart for our accommodation a big palace. Sedan chairs were provided in which to tote us around. All of them were green, except Miss Roosevelt's, which was yellow. The minute she saw it she proposed a swap."

"All right. You take my green one," said Longworth. "I don't like green, but I can stand yellow. I'll ride in your yellow chair."

"But our Chinese escort wouldn't hear of it. Yellow, they explained, was the color of royalty, and only Miss Roosevelt, the American princess, could ride in a yellow sedan chair without fracturing precedents and customs that had obtained in the Flowery Kingdom since Confucius was a baby. So the swap was declared off, although Miss Roosevelt tilted her nose every time she climbed into the yellow chair."

"While we were in Sulu we ran across an up to date datto, the Datto Jokamin. He wore a plug hat and a celluloid collar, although the temperature was well up toward a hundred. He was the best natured, perspiring fat man I ever saw. Some one had placed him in rapport with the situation, and one afternoon he lumbered up to where Miss Roosevelt was domiciled to pay his compliments. He could cackle a little English, and his manners were very impressive."

"When he got ready to leave he lugged out a box in which there were several fine pearls. With great dignity he bestowed them upon Miss Roosevelt and, grinning all over his face, said: 'For Princess Longworth.'"

"Some one must have put him up to it. I suspected Taft."

STORK DINNER IN SOCIETY.

Novel Entertainment Held For Young St. Louis Matrons.

Race suicide was the chief topic taboed the other night at perhaps the most original dinner ever given in America—certainly the most novel in St. Louis—at which Mrs. Charles T. Jones, mother-in-law of City Attorney Maurice Jones of East St. Louis was the hostess, says a St. Louis special to the New York Press. Mrs. Jones the elder entertained six young matrons at a stork dinner, as she called it, and so admirably did she carry out the idea that no other term would fit it. All the half dozen young matrons who were her guests had been married about half a year. They were schoolmates and grew through girlhood together. Mrs. Jones had kept a motherly eye on them from their respective wedding days, and she concluded a few days ago the time had arrived for her social coup.

Painted by hand on every invitation was a flying stork. That was a hint, so the guests were not amazed on arriving in Mrs. Jones' luxurious home to find it redecorated for the occasion, with the wide wings of the portentous bird fluttering in all directions. Nor did the idea end there. Each youthful matron found at her plate a paper crib. Over every cradle a tiny stork dangled a tinner cherub. As each favor in turn was lifted, the baby fell into the crib and snuggled cozily on a paper pillow. All the napkins were folded with safety pins, and the center piece was a huge stork zealously guarding the welfare of an imitation of an infant in swaddling clothes.

The menu consisted of the following dishes: Baby food soup, crib celery, milk fed chicken, gocart potatoes, Castoria sauce, paregoric salad, baby curl candy, nuts, with safety pins as picks, paddy cake and I-scream.

All of the young matrons were schoolmates and were married in a circle of their own, several of them acting as bridesmaids of the old chums, only to be led to the altar soon after by men who had acted either as best men or ushers at the previous weddings.

CORDUROY PANTS A BADGE.

University of Missouri Agricultural Students Adopt a New Style.

Students of the agricultural college of the University of Missouri have adopted corduroy trousers as a badge of their department, says a dispatch from Columbia, Mo., to the Kansas City Star. Practically every student of the college, from short course students, commonly known as "short horns," to seniors, wears trousers made of this serviceable material.

The stores in Columbia, Mo., that do a mail order tailoring business have been besieged the last few weeks with orders for corduroy trousers, and some of the farmer students have gone so far as to procure and wear to the daily recitations whole suits of the material. The fad has met with the approval of the other departments, especially the engineering, with the result that many other students have copied the dress of the farmers. One fraternity, composed largely of agricultural students, recently turned into a mail order house an order for twenty-five pairs of corduroy trousers.

Novelty In Postage Stamps.

A new series of postage stamps is about to be issued in Italy, says a special cable dispatch from Rome to the Chicago Inter Ocean. The stamps are of an original character and have been designed by the artist Mirbott. Acting on the principle that the portrait of King Victor Emmanuel is sufficiently known to all his subjects, it has been decided to replace the royal lineaments by historical pictures of the Coliseum, one of the principal units of the fleet, a representation of wireless telegraphy and Vesuvius.
